

Triad High School
Troy, Illinois 62294

The Giving Project

November 19, 2011

We are in the initial stages of development of a new program at Triad High School called The Giving Project. This is a service that we want to provide for any student facing a financial burden in our school to receive free gently-used clothing, toiletries, and or shoes/accessories. We plan to provide these resources to our students from donations that people may typically give away or sell. We are also working in coordination with our Special Education Department to use this resource as a means for transition skills for students in our training for life skills program (i.e., laundering, folding, and sorting).

Currently we have about 30 students who have expressed interest and we are finding that our students are in vital need of toiletries (i.e., shampoo, conditioner, deodorant, soap, tooth paste, shave gel, and razors). This is a need we are failing to meet because of a lack of available resources. That being said, we are asking for a monetary donation to be used in your stores for the purchase of the aforementioned items.

We know we are among many seeking support in these trying times and appreciate your consideration of our efforts.

Sincerely,

Kate Brendel
School Guidance Counselor

Kelly Thomason
School Psychologist